PREFACE.

The publishing of this list of the newspapers in the Yale University Library had its origin in a grant for the purpose to the Library by the Connecticut Academy, at the instance chiefly of the professors of the Department of History, who had long realized the great addition it would make to the working value of the collection.

The list includes all the newspapers owned by the Library from the earliest issues down to those of July 1915,* as well as a large number of South American papers deposited by Professor Hiram Bingham, and a complete file of the New Haven Register, deposited by that paper. The vexed question of what constitutes a newspaper has been settled for this list by including all periodicals whose main design is the publishing of news of general interest, issued more or less regularly once a week or oftener. The principal exclusions for lack of general interest have been a very large number of weekly organs of special interests, such as anti-slavery, trade, socialism, secret societies, etc., far too many to enumerate.

As a working list rather than a bibliography was desired, it was decided that the task should be limited to the selection of the publications to be included, the making of a new collation of all the files before 1800, its consolidation with the existing records of the later files and the rearrangement and regrouping of the titles. When information as to the identities and connections of papers was not already at hand or easily accessible, no attempt was made to obtain it. Consequently there are undoubtedly a few cases of failure to show a change of title or the connection between a paper and its continuation under a new title, and a certain number of small unnoted gaps in the runs from 1800 on, but it is not believed that these omissions will seriously interfere with the purpose of the list.

* The only exceptions to this statement to be noted are a collection of 93 French papers of the year 1848, mostly single issues of ephemeral and socialistic publications; a collection of 88 single issues of New South Wales papers of 1875; and several hundred single issues of United States papers from all parts of the country on the occasion of the death of President Garfield.

The main scheme of arrangement is geographical. The United States comes first with the states in alphabetical order, followed by the rest of the world with the countries in alphabetical order under continental divisions, as shown in the table of contents, page vii. Under each country or state are placed its cities in alphabetical order, and under each city its papers in the alphabetical order of the first word of the title of the earliest issue in the Library, except in a few cases of very well known papers, where the best known name has been used with proper cross references. Where a name has changed, the new name follows the old as a subheading, a cross reference being inserted in its alphabetical place. Cross references from catchwords have been inserted in the body of the list when it seemed necessary, and very fully in the index.

Under the title of each paper the issues are enumerated in the order of their dates, except in such cases as weekly and tri-weekly editions of daily papers, which certainly had a different set of subscribers, and were in a sense distinct papers. The issues of every such minor edition have been kept together and listed after the main paper. The date given is in every case that borne by the issue listed, except in the case of early English papers, some of which changed the date of the year on March 26th, and some on January 1st. This was so confusing that the modern year-date has in every case been determined and used.

The main list is supplemented by a title index in a single alphabet and by a series of charts showing graphically for each year the papers in the possession of the Library.

This list is based on a card catalogue made originally by the late Mr. Joel Sumner Smith, who also devised the chronological charts. Mr. Smith's collations were brought down to date, and with the addition of a considerable number of new titles, were prepared for the press by Mr. Arthur Head, who was employed for that purpose by the Connecticut Academy.

May Humphreys.
